

The Institute of Textile Science

Symposium 2024 March 5 & 6, 2024 Subsidize-a-Student Program

Dear fellow textile community member,

Student's interest in textiles is critical for the future of the Canadian textile industry. To encourage students in material science, polymers, and engineering disciplines as well as those in the traditional textile streams to participate in our Symposium, the Institute has established the Subsidize-a-Student Program.

The normal registration fee for students for the Symposium is CDN$70 per day. Individuals or organizations can subsidize one or more student registrations by contributing CDN$50 so that students only have to pay CDN$20 per day to attend the Symposium.

Students enrolled in undergraduate or graduate programs in universities, colleges, CEGEPs, and doing internships in research organizations are eligible.

We all understand the immense value of creating opportunities for students to interact with and learn from professionals in the industrial, academic and research communities as well as government agencies. I hope you will consider contributing to this program.

To contribute to the Subsidize-a-Student Program: <https://www.textilesciences.com/subsidize-a-student-2024>.

You can also send a cheque in the corresponding amount (payable to The Institute of Textile Science) to: Martin Forest/ITS Treasurer, 85 Rue de la Burlington, Sherbrooke, QC J1L 1G9.

Unless specified otherwise, the donors' names will be acknowledged during the Scientific Session and on the ITS website.

For more information about the Symposium: <https://www.textilesciences.com/its2024>

Best thanks for your support,

Patricia Dolez, PhD, PEng.
President, Institute of Textile Science
Associate Professor, Department of Human Ecology, University of Alberta pdolez@ualberta.ca